November 11–13, 2015

Moscow

Dear Colleagues!

A. Ishlinsky Institute for Problems in Mechanics of the Russian Academy of Sciences and the Physics Faculty of M.V. Lomonosov Moscow State University invite you to take part in the International Scientific School for Young Scientists "Physical and Mathematical Modeling of Processes in Geomedia", which will take place on November 11-13, 2015.

Sponsors of the School are:

- Russian Academy of Sciences
- FASO
- RFBR
- "Dynasty" foundation

This school continues a series of workshops and schools devoted to the discussion of the results of the RAS Presidium P-14 "Oil from deep horizons of sedimentary basins as a source of replenishment of the hydrocarbon resource base; theoretical and applied aspects"

Conference venue: A. Ishlinsky Institute for Problems in Mechanics of the Russian Academy of Sciences

Conference languages are Russian and English.

Participants submit electronic version of:

- registration form;
- short paper up to 3 pages (prepared in MS Word, 12 pt, paper size A4, 2 cm margins on all sides, TITLE OF THE PAPER, authors' names and addresses prepared according the template given at the School website).

Conference information package will be distributed at the registration. The conference program includes lectures (30 min), oral presentations (extended – 15 min and short – 5 min). Conference room is equipped with all the required presentation facilities.

KEY DATES

Registration form and short paper should be submitted before 1st October 2015

Author notification on acceptance is published before 10th October 2015

Scientific program topics: theoretical and experimental studies of processes in the atmosphere, ocean, lithosphere and its interactions; wide range of problems associated with the production of hydrocarbon materials; ecological problems of the environment; problems of human impact on the environment; methods of geophysical research.

Papers on related topics can also be included in the Program of the School. Number of papers presented by one author is not limited.

The School would provide an opportunity to attend more than 100 invited, oral and poster presentations. Open discussions on the scientific program topics will be held with the participation of leading experts in respective fields. The submitted materials of the School will be published (peer reviewed).
